PRINTABLE CHECKLIST · NOVEMBER 2026

Choosing a Hair Transplant Clinic in Turkey

Use this sheet when you compare clinics. It turns Turkey's rules and published medical guidance into eight checks you can make from home and nine questions to ask each clinic. It does not rank or recommend clinics, and it does not replace a consultation with a doctor.

Eight checks

- [ ] 1. The facility is authorized
  It appears on the Ministry of Health's health tourism authorization lists. Every facility that treats patients who travel to Turkey for treatment must hold this certificate.

- [ ] 2. The hair transplant unit has a permit
  A hair transplant unit can only operate inside a licensed hospital, medical center or polyclinic.

- [ ] 3. If you use an agency, you checked it too
  You do not need an agency: Turkish rules let facilities accept international patients who contact them directly.

- [ ] 4. You know who will do each stage
  Under the Hair Transplant Units Regulation, as amended in September 2025, only doctors may open the recipient incisions.

- [ ] 5. You had a consultation with the doctor
  Whether a hair transplant is suitable for you is a medical decision made by the doctor who examines you. At the consultation, the doctor usually examines your scalp and asks about your medical history.

- [ ] 6. You have a written, itemized quote
  A written quote lets you compare clinics on the same terms.

- [ ] 7. You know what you will sign and receive
  Consent form, patient information form and an itemized invoice. Ask for copies of these documents before you leave.

- [ ] 8. Aftercare and follow-up are agreed
  You know how the clinic will follow you up once you are home, and who to contact.

Questions to ask each clinic

Write each clinic's answer in its column. Ask for the answers in writing, so you can compare them on the same terms.
